

Support the strike. No more teaching on the cheap

WHY YOUR LECTURERS ARE ON STRIKE TODAY

- For four years, this college has paid your lecturers less than at other colleges
- Four years ago, it should have given its staff a pay rise. Instead it chose not to pay up, and tried to get its teaching on the cheap.
- When you pay your fees, your college promises you a first-class education. But it's making that promise while withholding pay that is due to your lecturers. We believe that this damages lecturers' morale and damages the college.
- How much longer will lecturers continue to work at this college if they can get better pay in the college up the road?
- How much longer can this college rely on staff to carry on working without getting fair pay?

No alternative

There is no alternative

We have tried talking to the college. We have tried reasoning with them. But they are not listening.

Now your lecturers have had enough. They have families to support and mortgages to pay, like everyone else.

They are not even asking for more money. All they want is the money they are owed.

That's why they are taking strike action this term. They don't want to do this, but feel they have no other choice.

What you can do to help

The best chance we have of averting the disruption of industrial action is to persuade the college management to talk to us. If you want to help:

- please take a copy of this leaflet and make sure other students and your parents see it
- sign the petition that is circulating
- wear one of our stickers.

Thank you for supporting your lecturers
